Using Our Website & Cookie Policy

This cookie policy relates to www.peakfinancial.ie

This policy is effective from 13th July 2022

What is a cookie?

A cookie is a small text file that may be stored on your computer or mobile device that contains data related to a website you visit. It may allow a website “remember” your actions or preferences over a period of time, or it may contain data related to the function or delivery of the site. Cookies can be set by the owner of the website or in some cases by third party services the website owner allows to present other information, run content or provide other functionality such as analytics.

The law states that we can store cookies on your device if they are strictly necessary for the operation of this site. For all other types of cookies we need your permission.

What types of cookies are used on this site?

Strictly Necessary Cookies

We use cookies which are strictly necessary to allow you to access to www.peakfinancial.ie to move between pages and to receive services which you have requested. These cookies are necessary for the website to function and cannot be switched off in our systems. These cookies do not store any personally identifiable information.

Analytical cookies

These cookies are used to track website visitors and their user behaviour. This data is then used to improve the way the website works and in turn, used to improve user experience. They help us know which pages are the most and least popular and see how visitors move around the site. All information these cookies collect is aggregated and therefore anonymous. If you do not allow these cookies, we will not know when you have visited our site.

All Google Analytics information is recorded anonymously and does not provide or share any user-identifiable information, for more information, please see Google's Privacy Policy.
